Boitumelong Primary School - receives school uniforms

Together with excited learners receiving goods are ms Mokaynae (teacher), mr TS Mofokeng (teacher), mr NP Mosia (principal) and mr T Dhlomo (donor).

Themba Dlomo and his half brother, Keke, alongside their other four friends decides to come together after contributing part of their salaries to buy and donate a school uniform to 20 needy primary school kids.

The uniform comprises of shoes, socks, trousers/skirts and t-shirts. The first fortunate local primary school to benefit from this project is Boitumelong Primary School that is based in town and under leadership of Neo Mosia. "The idea to start such a useful project was originally mooted by me after seeing one of the students walking barefoot from the school one day while I chilled at the local shops with some of my friends one afternoon", so says the founder and brain behind this project, Themba Dhlomo. "I realized that I have a circle of good friends, and most of whom who are working and we used to waste our money while we could channel it to good use", so says this maintenance clerk in one of the companies in Mpumalanga. "I then decided to approach mr Neo Mosia who is the Primary School headmaster and told him of our intensions. He then assigned kid's sizes, etc.", he rasped. Themba says he knows the principal from his primary school days at the local Bhekilanga school as his former teacher. "He seldom made jokes with us, but on this particular Monday, when these school uniforms got delivered at his school, his face glowed with excitement and he was speechless", he says.

This group of friends say they intend making it a habit to continue going to the needy kids and would also go on a drive to exhort the local community to also get involved in such projects by donating whatever items they feel will help this cause. "We don't ask them to contribute financially, but any item value, be it sanitary pads, jerseys and shoes are gladly welcomed. Even this coming winter, we intend doing some charity work to some other school because we intend making this a revolving and continuous project", he concluded.
